XII. Two newly diſcover'd Arteries in Women, going to the Ovaria. By Mr Ranby, Surgeon to his Majeſty's Houſhold, F. R. S.

SOmetime ago I preſented the Royal Society with a Deſcription of two * Arteries, which ariſing from the Aorta, and ſending Branches to the Glandula Renalis, then deſcend to the Teſticles. And I have ſince found the ſame Arteries in Women, deſcending in the ſame common Capſula with the Spermatick Artery and Vein, to the Ovaria. Theſe Arteries very probably are what the late Excellent Anatomiſt, Valſalva, took for excretory Ducts of the Glandulæ Renales, the Diſpoſition and Progreſs of theſe being very much alike to what has been aſcrib'd to thoſe ſuppoſed Ducts.
